tips from us

Why be coach independent?

Troubleshooting needs to be practiced

Always ensure that your child spends time on his / her own. They should understand that this is coach independent time and they should learn to trouble shoot.

Failing is everything in sport

Let your kids fail a lot both in practice as well as in a competitive environment. This is the most important learning that they will ever have.

Over coaching is a big NO

Always notice how your child's coach approaches a lesson. Do they speak too much? Do they step back every now and then to let your child figure it out. You should always choose a coach who does the latter.

question for you

As a parent do you feel that your child is over coached ?

First and foremost...

Summer is here and last month was great at the academy. We kicked off our Armed Forces Support program and we had some good talent show up at the academy.

By the looks of it, we have a busy summer ahead of us with a lot of new young players joining us at TSG. What I really like about this is the new trend where we are getting kids at a younger and younger age moving into the full time programs. This is great for us to mould them into fantastic individuals and golfers.

I am looking forward to this year where I can see a shift in the thinking of many parents all across the country.
